Hunted Man Found Stumbling in Water

By ELWOOD RANDOL
Journal Staff Writer

VALENTINE — "They got him!"

Those electrifying words, addressed to nobody in particular, meant everything to the citizens of this northern sandhills town who had spent almost 16 hours combing the rugged country along the Niobrara River for a man suspected of having shot and killed Nebraska Safety Patrolman Marvin Hansen, 29.

The man was identified as Lloyd Grandsinger, 22, of Clearfield, S. D., who was apprehended by Safety Patrolman John R. Skinner and Patrolman Curtis Cochran, both of Plainview.

Cherry Co. Atty. W. B. Quigley said he expected to file first degree murder charges against the man and his brother, Leon Grandsinger, who had been taken into custody at the time of the shooting.

* * *

LLOYD WAS apprehended in the rugged country near the County Line Bridge just east and south of Sparks.

His presence in that area had been suspected during most of the day Friday as several members of the ground and air posse had reported that they thought a man had been seen moving in the area.

But the first real evidence someone was in the area came when two youths, Albert Fischer and Alvin Smith, members of the ground posse, spotted footprints in a creek bed.

The two boys spread the alarm and Patrolman Cochran, Patrolman Skinner and a citizen member of the posse, Wayne Maddox of Valentine, sent some of the search crew down the creek following the footprints while they ewnt further down the road and then headed toward the creek.

* * *

WHEN THEY GOT to the County Line Bridge, they saw a man stumbling around in the water. Cochran and Skinner went down after him.

"I drove the car up to the river," Maddox said, "and then I jumped out and went to the river with Cochran. Richard Golden was waving his arms to signal something. We went over there and we saw the officers and Jim Vaughn and Fritz Brandenburg coming up out of the river with the man."

This was about a quarter mile west of the Brandenburg ranch house.

Other persons who participated in the capture were Patrol Sgt. Ray Shorney of Ainsworth, Patrolman Gerald Gates of Columbus, Patrolman Robert Gude of O'Neill, Patrolman Frank Dineen of Norfolk, Keya Paha County Sheriff Frank Richardson and Dale Sheppard of Springview, a member of the posse.

* * *

THE EVENTS began with what would ordinarily have been a routine police job.

A report had been received by Sheriff Freeman that a stolen car was heading toward Valentine. With Patrolman Hansen, the two of them went out on the highway and set up a road block. In a short while the suspected cars came along. There were two cars, one towing the other.

The officers stopped the cars. The driver of the front car got out and submitted to arrest but the driver of the second car darted into the darkness with Hansen after him. A series of gun shots rang out and Freeman later found Hansen mortally wounded by a .32 pistol bullet. His assailant fled.

* * *

FREEMAN alerted peace officers in the surrounding counties about 12:30 a.m. and then about 2 a.m., with the suspect missing, ranchers were notified the man was at large. The first small posse was formed and the hunt was on.

Radio Station WNAX at Yankton, S.D., when it came on the air, warned ranchers in the Sandhills region to be on the ooknut for the fugitive.

At dawn, another posse left Valentine for the rugged country. All during the morning more men came to aid in the search. Highway patrolmen from South Dakota joined the search. The South Dakola Patrol plane was dispatched to the area.

About 10 local fliers began an air search.

Men of Valentine, who had other work they could have been doing, left their work and joined the search.

* * *

COMMUNICATIONS headquarters was set up in the sheriff's office. A field headquarters was set up at the Berry Bridge so new arrivals for posse duty could be dispatched to the proper area.

More members of the Nebraska Safety Patrol arrived. Col. S. J. Sanders, chief of the patrol, arrived to take personal command.

By noon, nearly 400 men on both the Nebraska and South Dakota side of the border were combing the rugged canyons of the Niobrara River bottom lands.

False reports came into the sheriff's office and were checked out. No sign of the fugitive.

After more than 12 hours out in the brush, some of the crews had come into the courthouse to map strategy for the night search as Col. Sanders had determined the search would go on day and night until the man they were seeking was found.

* * *

THE TIRED crews sprang into action when another report came in that someone had been seen near a ranch house in South Dakota about 4 miles north of the Nebraska line. But that report soon proved false.

Patrol officers began to speculate that perhaps the man had been hit by Hansen and was either badly wounded or already dead.

Suddenly the sheriff's radio crackled:

"283 to Valentine," the voice said.

"Valentine, go ahead 283," that was the voice of James Sheets, deputy District Court clerk and chief radio operator.

"Valentine. We just talked to Capt. Schottler of the Highway Patrol and he said the suspect had been captured and is now in custody."

* * *

THE NEWS that Lloyd Grandsinger had been taken into custody spread over Valentine in a few minutes and a crowd began to gather around the Cherry County Courthouse to see the man when he was brought in.

A convoy of about six Safety Patrol cars brought Lloyd in about 4:20 p.m. CST and the officers hustled him through the crowd which had gathered at the rear of the courthouse in spite of the fact the rear entrance was being used to avoid the crowd.

Lloyd was bedraggled. His left trouser leg was torn off up to his hip. His hair was unkempt and hanging down in his face. He bore numerous scratches, apparently inflicted during his nocturnal flight in the underbrush. He was wet and he looked frightened.

* * *

UNDER QUESTIONING, Lloyd admitted he fled from the spot where he and his brother were stopped Thursday night. According to Patrol Lt. Leo Knudtson, Lloyd admitted firing at Hansen and then he crawled into a canyon and fled.

For long hours he walked through the darkness, Lloyd told the investigators, and then at dawn he started playing hide and seek with the posse.

State May Vote on Sales Tax at November Election

Growing public interest in a sales tax was mirrored Saturday as state officials decided Nebraskans should get a chance to vote on the question this November.

The Legislative Council Committee on Taxation, meeting with Gov. Robert Crosby, decided that some sort of vote on the issue should be placed on the November general election ballot. They agreed the April 20th special legislature session should put this on the ballot.

Just how this would be done was not clear.

Gov. Crosby has proposed a constitutional amendment which would restrict the use of a sales or income tax to first replacing that part of the state tax which supports state government.

But State Sen. Otto Liebers, chairman of the committee, indicated that something more directly positive was planned.

* * *

THERE SEEMED to be some question of just how the sales tax issue would be placed on the ballot.

Actually, no constitutional amendment is needed to bring a sales or income tax. The Legislature may pass such taxes at any time.

But in order to get a "straw vote" on the matter a constitutional amendment such as the following has been proposed:

"The Legislature may pass a sales or income tax."

* * *

IT IS POINTED out that this would change nothing but would allow an expression of the people's will.

Earlier, Gov. Crosby had said a vote would be meaningless and that he didn't favor it.

But at his press conference Saturday he said he was leaving the wording of the sales tax "vote" to the Liebers committee. He said he would withhold his final decision until he sees the actual wording.

* * *

IN OTHER business Friday, the Liebers committee:

1. Went along with Gov. Crosby on four of the other five constitutional amendments he wants the people to have a chance to vote on.

2. Agreed that the business of the special session should be limited to proposed constitutional amendments dealing with taxation and revenue.

The one Crosby recommendation which the committee decided not to co-sponsor is the one permitting partial exemption of homesteads. But that doesn't stop the governor from arranging for such a proposal to be drafted for introduction to the session.

Day to Be Set For Receiving Polio Vaccine

State Health Director Dr. E. A. Rogers will be advised by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis when Nebraska will receive polio vaccine for immunization tests in Lancaster and Douglas Counties.

All states cannot start the trial simultaneously, Dr. Rogers was informed by Dr. Hart E. Van Ripper, medical director of the foundation.

The present plan, Dr. Van Ripper said, is to initiate shipment of vaccine to some states prior to the April 24-25 meeting of the vaccine special advisory committee of the foundation. Since all states cannot start at the same time, the co-ordinating health officer in each state will be advised by telegram when he will receive the vaccine.

None of the vaccine shipped to states can be used until the special advisory committee gives its full approval.

The committee is to review tests made by manufacturers and independent testing laboratories and immunidation tests given to children by Dr. Jonas E. Salk, who discovered the vaccine.

"Only safe vaccine will be used in the field tests," Dr. Van Ripper told Dr. Rogers.

The vaccine has been challenged as unsafe in some quarters.

Attendants said the dog, owned by the Thomas J. McManus family of 1520 Nemaha, was expected to recover. Brownie was the fourth dog poisoned in the past month on Nemaha, between 14th and 16th.

Labor Dept. Reports Drop In Job Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell says that a decrease of 80,000 claiming unemployment compensation marks the "first break" in a five-month rise in the number of jobless.

But there still were 2,133,000 claiming jobless insurance—the highest for the last full week of March in any year since World War II. The figure compared with 976,016 a year ago and 1,177,204 for that week in 1952.

The Labor Department also reported that the number of persons filing initial claims for unemployment compensation last week rose by 46,100 to 339,000. But he said this gain resulted largely from "administrative factors" rather than new unemployment.

* * *

ONLY ABOUT 36 million of the nation's 60 million employed are covered by jobless insurance. The unemployment compensation claims are considered an important indicator in unemployment trends, particularly in industry.

The Agriculture Department estimated 7,278,000 were working on farms in the last week of this March. This was about 1 million higher than a month earlier but about 2 per cent lower than a year ago.

The Commerce Department's over-all labor force report recently showed that unemployment in the second week of March rose 3,700,000, a gain of 54,000 as against a month earlier.

* * *

ON ANOTHER economic front, the Commerce Department reported that March retail sales totaled $13,300,000,000, 5 per cent less than a year ago. This was a $1,200,000,000 gain over February but was slightly less than the usual increase.

After adjustment for seasonal factors there was a 2 per cent drop.

Allies Told Must Unite Against Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles confers with President Eisenhower before leaving for Europe to press for "united action" against any new Red Chinese aggression in Southeast Asia.

The President and Dulles were preparing an urgent warning that Allied failure to agree quickly on a united front declaration may result in all-out war in Asia.

At a special White House conference Dulles planned to discuss last-minute administration strategy aimed at prodding Britain and France to join in a warning to the Reds.

The Secretary of State was to leave here for London where he will confer Monday with Britain Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden. He will meet with French Premier Joseph Laniel in Paris Tuesday and Wednesday.

* * *

DULLES, emergency mission was arranged after Britain and France indicated reluctance to go along with a proposed 10-nation warning to Red China that further aggression in Indo-China and Southeast Asia would meet stern retaliation. London and Paris suggested it would be better to postpone action until the East-West Geneva conference is held, beginning April 26.

Informed sources said the administration believes any postponement would only encourage the Communists to press ahead with plans for conquering all Southeast Asia.

* * *

DULLES, mission assumed additional importance in the face of rising Republican sentiment in the Senate to postpone action on new foreign aid as long as the Europeans hold back on Southeast Asian strategy.

The Indo-China problem has developed into critical proportions in recent days. Both Dulles and Laniel have reported that Red China is stepping up its training of Red rebel forces and is pouring larger amounts of war supplies into the fight.

'Dulles Invented Interference'

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia accused U.S. Secretary of State Dulles of inventing Red China's "interference" in the Indo-Chinese war in an effort to sabotage the coming Geneva conference.

The paper said Dulles sought pledges of united action against Communism in Indo-China so the United States can "repeat the Korean adventure."

"In order to find a basis for his military calls," the paper said, "Dulles refers to Chinese 'interference' in Indo-China, which Dulles himself invented."

New Help To Fight Reds Asked

Brownell Wants More Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. called for new "constitutional weapons" to strike down the Communist Party in this country by "legal, orderly processes."

Brownell said the administration is striking at the Reds "at every opportunity" but needs the additional legislation "to complete the task of destroying this threat to our nation's safety."

His nationwide radio-television address was a follow up to President Eisenhower's Monday night speech warning against hysteria about Communism and other problems facing the nation.

He said he agreed with Eisenhower that "although we must be constantly alert to the danger of Communist infiltration, we should not have exaggerated fears of the danger."

* * *

HIS PROPOSAL for additional legislation to deal with Communist threats to unions and industry drew support from some congressional Republicans. But union officials adopted a wait-and-see attitude until they learn more details of Brownell's plan.

Brownell warned that the "threat of Communism is a very real one" and said the Eisenhower administration is "determined to destroy the effectiveness of the Communist movement in this country."

His legislative program to accomplish this includes proposals now pending in Congress to make wire-tap evidence admissible in court trials involving the national security and to grant immunity to balky witnesses who testify before congressional hearings and grand juries.

* * *

BROWNELL ALSO made these new legislative recommendations:

1. Allow an employer to fire from defense plants during a national emergency any worker whose record shows he is likely to engage in sabotage or espionage. Under present law, he said, such firings are possible only if the worker is working on a classified contract.

2. Eliminate Communist control of labor unions or industrial organizations in vital sections of the national economy. Under his proposal, the Subversive Activities Control Board would decide what unions are Communist-dominated and in a position to hurt the national security. Should the board make such a finding, members of the union would be forbidden to pay dues or perform services for the union or to work in defense plants.

Brownell is expected to expand upon his legislative proposals in detail when he appears Monday before a House judiciary subcommittee considering legislation to outlaw the party. Some of his top aides, including FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, are skeptical of these "outlaw the party" moves.

Crosby Plans To Issue Call Monday

Gov. Robert Crosby said he will issue a proclamation Monday officially calling the Legislature back into session as of April 20.

The proclamation, Crosby said, will be restricted to constitutional amendments on revenue and taxation.

He said the proclamation would "embrace" generally his six proposals to clear the way for the Legislature to change tax laws if it wants to do so.

The legislative taxation committee, headed by Sen. Otto Liebers of Lincoln, has agreed to ask the special session to make a "Yes" or "No" vote possible for the people on the question of a sales tax as a replacement tax.

The decision came after a closed session of the committee and the governor.

A constitutional amendment is not necessary for enactment of a sales tax so the proposal could be a constitutional amendment stating that the Legislature may enact a sales tax.

That wouldn't make anything offirial but it would give the legislators an idea of the sentiment of the people and guide them when they convene in regular session in January, 1955.

Crash Victim Said Critical

Special to The Journal

WAHOO—Oscar J. Berg, 54, of 601 So. 27th, one of two Lincoln men injured in a car-truck collision near Mead Friday, was reported in critical condition in Saunders County Community Hospital here.

Berg suffered internal injuries and a fractured left hip, pelvis bone and ribs. Fred J. Miners, 29, of 1212 So. 20th, received cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred at the junction of Highway 92-30A and Highway 77 near Mead. The two guards at the Nebraska Ordnance Plant at Mead were brought to Wahoo by the Wahoo firemen first aid squad.

State Safety Patrol Sgt. Clifford Cooper said the collision occurred after a semi-trailer grain truck, driven by Dean T. Graham, 24, of Colorado Springs, Colo., had jack-knifed on Highway 92-30A.

Cooper said the truck jackknifed after the driver set his brakes near the junction when a car ahead of him slowed for an auto entering from Highway 77.

The Lincoln car, believed to be driven by Berg, came in collision with the truck tractor as it stood on the edge of the road.

Cattle Feeders Protest U.S. Corn Marketing Policy

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Only Established Firms Buy

By JACK HART
Journal Farm Writer

Nebraska cattle feeders have raised a protest against a new policy for marketing old stocks of government-owned corn

In the future, such corn will be sold only to established grain firms under a plan announced by the state Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office

Past practice has been to sell directly from bin sites to feeders and other corn users

"The move is in line with a national policy of placing as much of the operation in the hands of private business as possible," explained James Lemley, head of the grain storage division of the state ASC

He added that the change is designed to take the government out of competition with grain dealers

BUT M J HANKINS of Stanton, president of the Nebraska Livestock Feeders Association decalred "We are opposed to local grain elevators being placed in a monopolistic position of being the only parties allowed to buy corn from government bins"

Hankins said his group greatly fears a repetition of what happened during the soft corn year of 1951 At that time he charged, certain unscrupulous local grain dealers made large profits of up to perhaps a half dollar a bushel by mixing high moistured and low quality corn with dry government corn and selling it to feeders at regular market prices"

There is no way to stop that practice, Hankins said

He added that some cattle feeders also are grain dealers and thus would be able to buy corn from the government at cheaper rates than other feeders

"We still think the feeders should be able to get government corn if they want to," he stated

* * *

THE CORN in question is about 14 million bushels of 1948 and 1949 crop which will be offered to dealers next week under the new arrangement Under this plan grain dealers will buy the corn at the same price they are paying farmers for No 1 corn $1 40 a bushel at present The dealer will add trucking and handling charges of about 2 cents a bushel and will be limited to a markup of 3 cents a bushel

Thus the corn will be resold to users at 5 cents a bushel more than they have been able to buy it direct from the bin sites

Lemley reported that most grain dealers are taking a 4 cent markup on corn they buy from farmers making a resale price of $1 44

I think this will offer corn at very little higher prices than at present and still put the elevator operators in a position to merchandize the grain' Lemley commented

* * *

THE PLAN has been worked out over a considerable length of time and grain warehousemen are 'favorably impressed" Lemley said The change has the approval of the Nebraska Grain and Feed Dealers Association

Sale of the corn from a bin site will be restricted to dealers located in the area from which that corn originally came This will prevent large operators from buying excessive amounts, Lemley pointed out

In addition, no dealer will be permitted to buy more corn than he is able to receive and store in a three-day period

Lemley explains that the poorest of the 1948 and 1949 corn has been sold Only the best is left, he said

Instructions on the new policy will reach county ASC committees Monday Necessary contracts with dealers and truckers should be signed by Wednesday, Lemley said, and the corn can start moving into private business channels after that time

Total so far this year stood at 73 compared to 49 a year ago

In reporting on the 71 traffic deaths in Nebraska up to the end of March, Col C J Sanders patrol chief noted that one-car accidents accounted for 29 fatalities

Twenty eight resulted from two car accidents Ten victims were pedestrians three died on railroad crossings and one was killed in a tractor upset

Auditorium Fund Is Issue

Needed financial support and not the question of whether a federal issue is involved is of chief concern to auditorium petitioners

At a special meeting of the committee procurement of funds came first in discussion

C M Sutherland spokesman for petitioners who sought repeal at an election of all charter amendments pertaining to the auditorium and who were denied by high court edict said that nothing will be done about appeal until the court rules on motions for rehearing

As to the matter of a federal issue such as would gain entry to the U S Court Sutherland entertains little doubt He believes that a constitutional question is involved

"When adequate petitions are filed and petitioners are denied the right to vote, we feel that this is contrary to rights vested by the constitution" he said "Petitioners contend that they have not had their day in court"

Mrs. Ralph H. Nickel

Mrs. Robert William Hasebroock

HICKMAN—Before a background of cathedral candles, Easter lilies and greenery, Miss Janice Evers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Evers, became the bride of Ralph H. Nickel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Nickel of Alvo. The Rev. James B. Lyon officiated at the Friday evening ceremony in the presence of 250 guests.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of imported French Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over satin. The sculptured basque bodice was held to a sweetheart yoke of illusion with seed pearls and bugle beads on lace medallion appliques.

Her full skirt featured tiered ruffle godets of pleated tulle which fell into a court train. Her imported illusion veil fell from a crown of iridescent beads and pearls. She carried a white Bible marked with orchids from which fell a shower of lilies of the valley.

Miss Audrey Anne Evers was her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Mary Margaret McKeone of Lincoln, Miss Janice Muhle of Leigh and Miss Wanda Wood of Grant. The attendants appeared in starlight blue frocks fashioned with strapless bodices of lace topped by pleated fichus, and three tiered danseuse length nylon skirts.

Their colonial bouquets of candle-light pink roses were tuffed with pink carnations and showered with satin streamers.

Miss Carolyn Lee of Brownlee and Miss Joyce Hock of Lincoln lighted the candles and flower girl was Miss Patty Kurtz of Lincoln. Jerry Hardnock of Alvo was ringbeaer.

John Chappel of Minden served Mr. Nickel and best man and the ushers were Donald Mattox of Omaha, Ronald Dawson of Exeter and Otto Apfelbeck of Wilber.

Mr. and Mrs. Nickel are attending the University of Nebraska where the bride is a member of Sigma Kappa Sorority. Mr. Nickel is a member of Acacia Fraternity and Kappa Alpha Mu.

BEATRICE—Settings of woodwardia fern, lemon leaves, Easter lilies and daffodils appointed the chancel of First Presbyterian Church for the 4:30 p.m. Friday wedding of Miss Gracia Wolfe Eyth and Robert William Hasebroock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid W. Eyth and Mr. Hasebroock is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hasebroock of West Point. The Rev. H. Willard Lampe officiated in the presence of 500 guests.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over white satin.

The full tulle over satin skirt was accentuated by a double tiered peplum of tulle complemented by the appliqued lace pattern. The train swept into cathedral length. Her fingertip length veil of imported silk illusion was held to her head by a band fashioned with a large feather pattern of beads and pearls.

The modern bouquet was of Easter lilies and glacier ivy.

Miss Martha Cook attended the bride as maid of honor and matron of honor was Mrs. William A. Eyth. They appeared in waltz length gowns of shaded nile green. The strapless bodices of crushed nylon net were covered by brief taffeta shrug jackets.

The bridesmaids, Miss Blythe Thomsen, Mrs. William Hodder of Kearney, Mrs. Hugh Williams of Omaha and Mrs. James Campbell of Lincoln, were gowned like the honor attendants but in a maize tone and carried yellow daffodil bouquets.

Miss Cathy Eyth, flower girl, appeared in a hoop-skirted frock of maize net over taffeta styled with a wide low collar.

William A. Eyth, the bride's brother, served as best man, and the ushers were Carr Trumbull of Scottsbluff, James Lubker of West Point, Robert H. Eyth, and Eldon Park, Keith Skalla and Walter Wright, all of Lincoln.

For traveling Mrs. Hasebroock wore a navy blue wool suit styled with a slim skirt and fitted jacket featuring bracelet-length sleeves.

Following their return from the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs, Colo., Mr. and Mrs. Hasebroock will reside at 3017 So. 17th in Lincoln.

Mrs. Hasebroock was graduated from Gulf Park College, Gulfport, Miss., and will be graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where she is past president of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority and affiliated with Phi Lambda Theta.

Tribute to the Safety Patrol

The tragic killing of State Safety Patrolman Marvin Hansen is certain to cause some sober thought on the part of a Legislative Council Committee studying means of providing security for dependents of law enforcement officers killed in the line of duty.

The committee, headed by State Sen. K. W. Peterson of Sargent, will meet for the first time on April 23, just two weeks after the highly respected patrolman was shot to death in Cherry County.

The facts before the committee are simple. Patrolmen are not highly paid. Trooper Hansen received $320 a month. Pay rates range up to $410 for captains. Not much study is needed to see that this leaves little to set aside for dependents.

The solution is not so simple. Mr. Hansen is the third patrolman to lose his life on duty in little more than a year. Last year the Legislature voted to appropriate $10,000 for widows of each of the patrolmen killed since the patrol was organized 17 years ago. At the same time it decided to try to work out a more satisfactory arrangement for the future.

There is no question that Nebraska's patrolmen are underpaid, as is any man prepared to sacrifice his life for society. But it is more than money that draws young men into the patrol. The agency has a continuous list of applicants seeking appointment. The young men on the waiting list know what the pay is; they are aware, too, of the dangers involved.

It is an intense pride in serving their fellow men that brings these men into the patrol. The Nebraska Safety Patrol has an "esprit de corps" seldom equalled in law enforcement agencies.

It would seem that in recognition of these facts the people of Nebraska would want to provide for those bereft whenever a trooper's devotion to duty costs his life. Sen. Peterson and his colleagues are engaged in grave and heartfelt study. It is to be hoped their solution can stand as a tribute to the brave men who have died serving the state of Nebraska.

The Real Tax 'Bite'

From the Catholic Digest

Most of us are inclined to believe our modern tax structure is the most onerous ever devised. It is interesting to learn, therefore, that some of the tax authors of earlier days were far more ingenious than ours in thinking up unusual levies.

For example, the Romans had a tax on dying and a deceased person could not be buried until the tax was paid.

Persons wishing to present gifts to the Emperor Constantius had to pay a tax for the privilege of doing so.

Peter the Great, who wanted to Europeanize Russia, put a tax on beards. Barbers stationed at the gates of Moscow shaved all those who could not or would not pay the tax.

Russians also paid taxes for the privilege of holding marriages and funerals.

The British had some dandy taxes in the 17th century, such as the special tax on any house having six or more windows, the tax on family crests and coats of arms, and the tax (the price of one meal) which Puritans had to pay every week.

France had a tax requiring each person to buy seven pounds of salt a year, whether the taxpayer wanted that much or not. In the 1700s, the pasha of Turkey was entitled to collect "tooth money" from any peasant family with which he might dine. This was in reality a tax to compensate the pasha for wear and tear on his teeth.

The Same All Over

It took the Young Communist League to bring into the open a shameful secret—that the USSR is having trouble with that bourgeois manifestation, juvenile delinquency. Radio Moscow broadcast a resolution criticising those responsible for the work of the Pioneers, a Commie organization of children too young to go to school. It seems that these depraved rebels "have behaved badly at school, at home and in the streets. They are rude to their parents, teachers and elders. The Momsomol and the Pioneer organization must carry on a determined struggle against lack of discipline, rudeness and improvidence in their attitude toward Soviet property." The reference to property, adds the Nebraskan, which picked up this shocker, is the Communist way of saying school children and their juniors are smashing up and not looking after state property. "Strangely enough, the resolution also demanded elimination of 'harmful influences and religious prejudices' among school children. The generally unknown life inside Russia becomes ever more mysterious."

Frankenstein's Chariot?

The loss of a British jet airliner in the Mediterranean was a double tragedy for that hard-pressed nation. The loss of 21 lives was a sufficient calamity in itself. The other aspect of the crash is cumulative. The 500-mile-an-hour Comets, first jet planes to go into regular passenger service, represent Britain's best chance for air transport industry, on which great hopes were built. After every fatal accident all Comets are grounded for three months, and this week's calamity followed by only 16 days the restoration of service after another off the isle of Elba which took 35 lives. And as if that were not enough, a Canadian military training plane collided with a passenger plane the same day, killing 37.

All this rouses in some minds a surmise that jet craft, with their almost unimaginable speed, aren't yet sufficiently tamed to be reliable servants—perhaps cannot even be made safe enough. It is typical of the air age that throughout the brief life of jet passenger traffic there have been plenty of people willing enough to take the risk. Today's human being is the embodiment of nonchalance when facing new inventions and discoveries. Whether he is braver than his forefathers or merely rasher and less given to contemplation, remains an open question. He doesn't like to think that anything he can devise won't immediately serve him. Perhaps the super-speed passenger plane will induce him to stop, look and listen—though it seems unlikely on the face of it.

Dulles Takes Risks for Peace

WASHINGTON—"Sometimes it is necessary," Secretary of State Dulles remarked in his recent New York speech, "to take risks to win peace." Hardly anyone yet seems to realize how very serious are the risks which Secretary Dulles, with President Eisenhower's consent, is now prepared to take. The most serious is nothing less than the risk of general war.

Joseph Alsop

Dulles has said, in effect, that a failure to negotiate an acceptable Indo-Chinese settlement at the forthcoming Geneva conference will invite "united action." He has underscored this warning by initiating well publicized diplomatic talks with France, Britain, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and Siam.

Dulles has shrewdly refused to spell out in detail and in advance just what "united action" means. But one key diplomat in Washington interprets his obvious meaning as follows. "Action doesn't mean talk, and it doesn't mean money—it means troops." In short, "united action" means the dispatch of military forces by the United States and other free nations to Indo-China, to bolster the French and Viet Nam forces there.

* * *

Preliminary Soundings

Since this action which Dulles proposes is to be "united," the final decision does not rest only with the United States. But preliminary soundings indicate that most at least of the other nations with vital interests in the area agree in principle to sending forces to Indo-China, if it becomes clear that there is no alternative other than Communist victory there.

The French, for their part, make no bones about it—they cannot, or will not, carry on the war on the present basis after Geneva. But the French do seem likely to agree to continue to supply the bulk of the non-Asian ground troops—which is a Dulles pre-condition—given the new basis for the war proposed by Dulles in his New York speech.

For the present, in other words, no one is predicting the participation of several American divisions in Indo-China, as in Korea. But "united action" does inescapably mean the direct participation of American forces in the war. And it is from this that the risks of a much larger war spring.

Most French officials—and some American and British officials as well—believe that any direct American participation in Indo-China will insure full scale Chinese Communist intervention, as in Korea. The United States is then committed to retaliate—and the mildest form this retaliation could take is the bombing of the southern Chinese supply lines. In this case the Chinese could—and probably would—invoke the Sino-Soviet treaty.

The Kremlin would then be faced with the nightmarish choice of abandoning its Chinese ally, or risking world war.

It is just because this choice is so nightmarish that there is hope that "united action" may never become necessary at all. Before the Korean truce, Dulles took the opportunity of a private talk with Indian Premier Nehru to let the Communists side know that the alternative to a truce was an enlarged war. Dulles is known to believe that this and other prior warnings made the truce possible.

* * *

Not Bluffing

As previously reported in this space, in Berlin Dulles had a similar private talk with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. He told Molotov in effect that the United States would fight, however reluctantly, rather see Indo-China absorbed by the Soviet Communist empire. The "united action," speech and the diplomatic talks now going on have served to underline this warning.

There are some signs that the warning may be having the desired effect. Soviet Ambassador to France, Sergi Vinogradov, for example, recently told French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault with great emphasis that he was certain some acceptable formula for peace in Indo-China could be found at Geneva. There was also the significant speech by Chinese Politburo member Chen-Yu, already cited in this space, hinting that the Indo-Chinese Communists might have to be abandoned in the interests of world peace.

Yet there are signs pointing in the other direction as well. Soviet diplomats are now given to repeating like a litany that China is, after all, a sovereign nation with a will of its own. And at least one Russian diplomat has remarked flatly to a Western colleague that "the American Senate will never agree to send troops to Indo-China"—an obvious hint that the Kremlin thinks Dulles is bluffing.

Dulles is not bluffing. He is certainly gambling—which is not the same thing—and his gamble certainly involves hair raising risks for both sides. His gamble may turn out very badly indeed—one Dulles critic has remarked that "Dulles is an amateur poker player who has been inveigled into a chess game for enormous stakes with experts." Yet Dulles has taken his gamble simply because he is convinced that the only alternative is the loss of Indo-China, and that the loss of Indo-China could only be the prelude to other and progressively more terrible disasters. It is at least comforting to recall that Dulles has gambled for high stakes before—in Iran as well as in Korea—and that he has won.

The Cynic's Corner

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL

— A Chat with the EDITOR —

MEXICO CITY—If I were a high school or college faculty advisor I would do almost anything to see that the kids learned Spanish.

* * *

As many Journal readers know, the kind of Spanish they speak here is to Spanish (Castilian Spanish) about what American English is to the King's English as it is spoken in England. They would laugh at you for example if you were to use the "th" sound instead of the "s" sound for "c."

International Language

It is also a fact that a foreign language is no longer necessary even to conduct diplomatic business. We have been meeting for several days with a delegation of Mexican government officials who, while they do not all speak English, recognize that English is the new international language.

The chairman of the Mexican section of our commission, a seasoned diplomat, who is experienced in Inter-American as well as United Nations conferences, is quick to point out that he can get anywhere with English, whereas French once was the so-called international language.

* * *

Nevertheless it is also clear that if Americans are really to understand their neighbors to the south they must know Spanish. We have found this out in our meetings if we did not know it already, for many times we have found our discussions turn on the question of the exact meaning of the English-language versus the Spanish-language versions of an international agreement.

* * *

But what really astounds me is how many Mexicans speak flawless English and how relatively few Americans speak even the most rudimentary Spanish. I suppose our educational system is better than Mexico's. Yet somehow it does not seem to equip Americans to deal with their neighbors on the same basis as our neighbors are prepared to deal with us.

The mere fact that you can get by without a foreign language, since English is so universally spoken among the peoples with whom Americans outside the United States customarily have to deal, does not mean to me that you can really get along in this world without knowing a foreign language.

* * *

If you don't know the other fellow's native tongue, you are somewhat at his mercy. You do not know the shading of meaning he attaches to what you say, nor do you know what he says in his own tongue among his countrymen. In effect, you have people talking behind your back all the time, and you can't do anything about it.

* * *

When I went to college, French was the language young people were supposed to take, because, it was said, French was the international language.

Today English has supplanted French in that respect. But Spanish-American (it interests me that Mexicans do not speak of a Mexican language—only of Spanish) is the tongue of a vast world whose economy is on the upgrade, and with whom the U.S. increasingly must deal.

* * *

We are darn fools if we don't know how to talk with these neighbors. Furthermore, it is humiliating to have to admit that so many Mexicans know two languages while so few Americans know only one.

Assessor's Visit

LINCOLN—I just received a visit from the tax assessor and believe me this new deal including Operation Honesty is really something.

I have saved a few dollars and have been able to buy a home here in Lincoln which I now own jointly with the loan company. Every time I have to pay taxes here I wonder just where it will all end and if there will ever be an end.

It seems to me that all the legislators could look around at some of our neighboring states or maybe even skip over a state or two and study the tax systems and their automobile licensing systems and a few things like that which cost the tax payers of this state so much every year in the excessive cost of administering our present systems.

Who remembers what those dishes we received as a gift about 12 years ago and which three kids have sort of worn thin are worth?

Figures Don't Lie

LINCOLN—They say statistics may be used to prove anything, but that figures don't lie. I herewith give you the following for what you can make of it.

Nebraska's population, about 1 million spread over an area nearly 200 miles wide and 400 long manages to kill 300 or more each year in traffic accidents.

The population of the Washington, D. C., metropolitan area is approximately the same as Nebraska's, but jammed into an area of about 30 miles square. The average annual traffic fatality count in the District of Columbia is 70; that of the outlying Maryland and Virginia suburbs, perhaps 50 more.

These figures apparently indicate that the same number of people here with 100 times the space in which to avoid each other bang into each other at two to three times the rate prevailing in Washington, D. C.

Indian Welfare

LINCOLN—The editorial in The Journal (Victims of Bureaucracy, March 3) should start Nebraskans thinking about how our Indians will fare now that they are citizens of the state and not government wards.

Recently there appeared also in The Journal a new item about the proposed closing of the Winnebago Hospital for Indians. The statement was made that there would be delays in their gaining admission to public or private hospitals because of red tape in checking the Indians' health condition, ability to pay and so on.

In this connection a newspaper report from Warm Springs, Ore., states that the "federal government's economy programs will cause Indians to drift back to reliance on medicine men and midwives." That probably is the greatest risk in closing Indian hospitals before any definite health program has been worked out with these new citizens.

Last fall the Chadron PTA caused a group of Indians that had been living near the town to be sent back to their reservation because they might be a health risk. This action not only failed to help in solving the health problem of the Indians, but seems also of doubtful legality since now they have the rights of citizens.

Undoubtedly it was a step in advance to recognize the Indians as citizens, but the assumption that state governments are ready to assume responsibility for the protection of their rights and for their welfare is questionable. What provision is Nebraska making to assimilate satisfactorily these new citizens? The communities that are to receive them probably will need support and guidance in handling this problem.

During our well remembered snowbound winter when "operation haylift" saved hundreds of cattle, a group of Indians that had wandered from their reservation in search of work, were unprovided for while government and state authorities debated whose responsibility they were.

It is to be hoped that our state can do better in looking after the welfare of these people.

34. Love Alone Governs

By HELEN FERGUSON
Public Relations Consultant, Hollywood

When I arrived in New York at the age of 16 I had $28 in my purse and a scrapbook of clippings which chronicled my budding career as a motion picture actress in Chicago.

Helen Ferguson

But my real equipment for success lay in my complete faith in the power of prayer; in my gratitude that I was an American. In America, my mother had taught me, one could earn anything one was willing to work hard for, and I believed her.

Within six weeks my money was spent, I was homesick, my shoes needed resoling, and I was stranded in a brownstone front rooming-house in Brooklyn.

But I wasn't scared. You can't be scared when your heart is filled with faith, your mind filled with prayer.

I had to have a roof over my head, so I made a deal with my landlady. She moved me into a dinky attic room, and for that heatless cubicle I agreed to do the daily clean-up work on all four floors.

A Deep Hatred

I soon discovered my deep, stark hatred of the ugly kitchen. Despite my most energetic attentions, it always looked dreary. And I hated washing dishes. Passionately, I hated that endless, unrewarding task.

I was also filled with self-pity. A leading lady in Chicago, here I was washing dishes in an ugly house in Brooklyn, making no money to send home to my mother and sister.

I was furious with resentment. I hated, even, every cup and saucer. I had to pay for each cup, saucer, plate or glass I broke. And I broke more each day.

It was hard to pray through all that hate and self-pity.

Sunday School was an oasis in my misery and bewilderment. It was like holding my mother's hand. And finally, what a blessing came from confiding my problem to my Sunday School teacher.

Prayers Not Answered

"I just don't understand," I said flatly. "Why aren't my prayers answered?"

"Because you 'pray amiss,' Helen," she said gently. "You have been taught that Divine Love alone governs man, protects and directs him; that hatred never solved a problem nor dissolved an obstacle. Love, though, will do both."

"You mean I have to love that kitchen?"

"You don't have to love that kitchen, but you do have to love your way out of it. Unless, of course, you're happy hating it."

That loving rebuke brought the humble realization that I had been dictating to God, thereby not following my religious training at all.

It was a tall order, but it had to be filled. I started being grateful that I had a place to live. And from that small gratefulness, the expense of replacing broken dishes stopped. Because—I stopped breaking them.

Proud and Happy

I found myself taking a pride in the cleanness of the kitchen, in the neatness of its shelves. I bought some bright paper and was delighted at the happy look of those shelves. I spent a dollar on bright calico, and persuaded the landlady to make perkily ruffled curtains. I coaxed a discouraged geranium bud to grow into an ambitious red bloom in a pot around which I'd wrapped a bit of crisp crepe paper.

And I was so proud and happy with my production.

I don't know, nor can I remember, just when hate left. Suddenly all was lovely, and hate was gone. One night I discovered a new pillow case on my bed. At the store one day I learned the landlady had the neighbors in to view the kitchen and had said, "The child will go where she wants. Work don't scare that one."

In a burst of gratitude I rushed to the dime store and bought a half-dozen sparkling glasses as a gift for my kitchen. When I reached it there was a message. My first call from the Edward Small Agency.

A Positive Role

My work was done in that house. I had literally and spiritually loved my way out of it. I had gained a positive, scientific rule for overcoming anything that could overwhelm me.

There is really no end to my kitchen story. Its principle is ever present in my business and social life, and proving that principle—over and over—is one of life's continuing adventures.

The warfare with oneself is not fought in a sparkling arena, but in some murky corner of consciousness which, when one has loved enough, becomes bright and gay and peaceful.

My picture career climbed steadily, carrying me from New York to Hollywood. The things I dreamed of doing came into existence whenever I demonstrated the scientific power of prayer.

In The Depression

When my first husband passed away I retired permanently from the screen, and two years later married again. In 1932, at the nadir of a depression, my husband's bank closed; he was completely broken in the crash.

Could I now, with four step-children to support, resist resentment, disappointment and fear of the future and rely unquestionably on Divine Love to meet my every human need?

I wasn't 16 this time—and I was scared. Until I took stock on a comparative basis. If I wasn't 16, but I was wiser. And most important of all, I had the proved and tested equipment for success: faith in prayer, gratitude that I was an American, and I still believed what Mother had taught me—one could earn anything one was willing to work hard for.

In 1933, in the fogs of depression, I started in business: Helen Ferguson, Publicity.

To Fill A Need

During my years as an actress I had always felt there was a need to raise the accepted level of Hollywood publicity—a need to picture most of its citizenry accurately.

I called or wrote dozens of prospective clients. I sat in my tiny $15-a-month office and waited. Nobody came. It could have been like my first weeks in my landlady's kitchen so long ago except . . . this time I already knew the principle to be proved. If I was about my Father's business, doing whatever was at hand with love, my human needs would be met.

Ten days later lovely Fay Wray became my first client. Three months later I moved to a larger office, and four months after that had my own building with four offices. My husband passed on 11 years ago. I have eight offices today; clients who are also my friends; my step-children are all grown and married. Mother and I share a spacious home.

It is a success story. I know that. I am humbly grateful for my participation in it, but it is not a personal success story. It is the story of the success of a principle, a principle available to all.

CONFIDENT LIVING by Norman Vincent Peale

A Technique for Self-Improvement

I know a man who spent his first 50 years refusing to believe in himself. He got along after a fashion, but never did anything like the things of which he was capable. Haunted by his disbelief in his own ability, he was always filled with conflict and resentment of others who seemed to do better than he.

Dr. Peale

Then, at 50, when he was supposed to be well beyond the age at which a man can change, he began to think seriously about how to do a creative job on himself. And he was humble enough to realize he had made mistakes and hopeful enough to believe it was not too late to correct them. Particularly he became aware of his possibilities through reading and practicing faith.

He decided to seek help from a psychological counselor and from a minister who was an expert in personality guidance. There are many such trained people today whose function is to help others solve problems they cannot work out by themselves. My friend talked freely to his counselors. He was given new insights and was helped to understand his desires, defeats, hopes, and, more important, his latent powers. A series of aptitude tests was given him and it was discovered that he had many talents which he had not previously put to use. He was advised to go into a new line of work, a type of activity he had never considered.

* * *

A Personality Victory

Today he is in a business for which he had no training before he reached the half century mark. He is running a small but successful chain of shops. More important is the fact that he has conquered his sense of personal inadequacy and overcome his disbelief in his own abilities. At 55 he has achieved a truly sensational personality victory.

Whenever I talk with this man I am astonished at what remarkable things a human being can do to improve himself by following certain fundamental laws. One of the most wonderful things in this world is the result you can get with your own self if you set your mind to accomplish something, then believe in the power of God to help you, and work at it. Think, believe, work—these three lead to successful living.

If you depend for self-improvement on the help you can find in creative faith, there is no limit you need place on yourself. One of the amazing things about people is their infinite possibilities for improvement. This is one of the great teachings of religion and has always been a fundamental point of our American philosophy. It has been expressed in many ways but never better than in a passage in your Bible: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

* * *

Mental Attitudes

If you are not satisfied with yourself, there is every hope that you can become what you want to be. But, if you are satisfied with yourself, there is little hope for you. For, if you feel no improvement is possible, then you never will improve yourself. Fortunately, I rarely meet anyone who is so self-satisfied that he feels no need for self-improvement. Most people have the humility to know they can do more and be better.

State Farmers Add Over 3 Million Trees

Million Multi-Flora Roses Planted Along Fence Rows

By JACK HART
Journal Farm Writer

Nebraska farmers, assisted by the state and federal governments, are in the process of adding about 4½ million trees and bushes to the state's landscape

The result will be further weather protection for farmsteads, more cover for wildlife and an increase in soil and water conservation.

These factors are behind the farmer-government partnership in the tree planting business. With this help, farmers can contribute to the state's woodland at a nominal cost

This year about 1,100,000 trees will be started under the Clarke-McNary program and about 2 million under the Soil Conservation Service In addition, about 1,300,000 multi-flora rose bushes will be planted along fence rows under a co-operative arrangement between the SCS and the State Game Commission.

* * *

THE MULTI-FLORA rose plantings provide excellent cover for quail and pheasant, explains Wade Hamor of the Game Commission. In addition, says Sidney Burton, state forester with the SCS, the bushes hold the snow and aid in preventing soil blowing

For farmers, the dense, prickly growth acts as a living fence which keeps even hogs in their place The multi-flora rose fence is of particular value in contour farming where it is difficult to build a fence, Burton points out

Since the program was started in 1947, the interest in multi-flora rose fences has grown steadily, Hamor reports About 1½ million are expected to be planted next year, he says

The bushes are supplied by the SCS and planted by the Game Commission The farmer's only expense is in preparing the ground for planting and caring for the bushes after they are started.

* * *

SCS TREES FOR windbreaks and woodlots are supplied and planted for six or seven cents each, Burton says The Service's nurseries in the state contributed about 500,000 of those planted this year, the remained coming from commercial nurseries

All SCS nurseries will be closed after this year But Burton does not expect this to raise the price of trees to farmers appreciably

Most SCS stock is put in with tree-planting machines owned by soil conservation districts At present, 74 machines are in use in the state, Burton reports

The Clarke-McNary program has placed about 30 million trees on the Nebraska plains since it was inaugurated in the state in 1926 according to Karl Loerch, extension forester at the University of Nebraska This does not include establishment of shelterbelts, a separate project of the Forest Service, he points out

Interest in this program has dropped somewhat since it reached a peak in 1952, Loerch says He credits this, in part, to the Game Commission's program

Under the Clark McNary plan, farmers get the seedlings delivered, but not planted, at cost—this year three cents for evergreens and 2½ cents for broadleaves In Nebraska, the evergreens are supplied by the nursery at the Halsey National Forest and the broadleaf varieties come from the Plumfield Nurseries at Fremont

Brucellosis Fight Is Spreading

Programs Begun In 13 Counties

By FRANK RALL
United Press Writer

Programs to control brucellosis in cattle are underway in 13 Nebraska counties, Dr J L George, state veterinarian said

George said a "pure guess" would be that portions of 10 or 12 more counties will have the farmer-initiated programs underway by 1955

Brucellosis causes abortion in cattle It is an infectious disease that affects domestic animals and sometimes people There is no cure for the disease in livestock

* * *

THE 1953 NEBRASKA legislature recognized the problem and authorized establishment of control districts in the state upon vote of 75 per cent of the owners of 95 per cent of the dairy and breeding cattle in a proposed control area

Financially, the state and federal governments foot half the bill each Nebraska was appropriated $80,000 by the Legislature for two years

George said he hopes the money will last until 1955

There is brucellosis in Nebraska cattle but George said severity of the disease varies from area to area

Steps taken to control the disease are vaccination of calves and quarantine and eventual slaughter of infected full-grown animals.

George said the program has made "very satisfactory" progress in Nebraska since it got underway last September

* * *

PROGRAMS NOW ARE underway in Madison, Sherman, Kearney, Adams, Clay, Hamilton, York, Fillmore, Seward, Gage, Johnson, Nemaha and Otoe counties

Nationally, brucellosis causes an annual livestock loss of at least $100,000 000, according to the U S Agriculture Department's Bureau of Animal Industry

George said no estimate has been made in Nebraska

Brucellosis is a serious threat to the cattle industry if it gets out of line in that it causes loss of calves temporary and permanent sterility, lower sales value of infected animals, decreased milk and meat production the breaking up of purebred lines, and greater costs for herd replacements

The U S animal industry bureau said the disease has a "baffling behavior" in that as a rule an infected animal can't be distinguished from a healthy one by general appearance

Farmers Wonder if Present Subsoil Moisture Enough

With the growing season starting and not much moisture being added, farmers are wondering if the present supply of subsoil moisture will mature the 1954 crops

According to a recent survey made by the extension agents in Lancaster County the winter moisture has penetrated from 36 to 42 inches The depth of penetration varies between different fields and varies as to the location within the county

Generally, the south half of Lancaster county holds the edge over the north half of the county Wheat and corn stalk fields have more moisture stored than do pastures and alfalfa fields

So far as final yields are concerned, at present it would seem that small grain yields should be normal providing there is now a stand

Corn must receive additional moisture during the growing season to make average yields and hay crops will fail short unless above average moisture is received during the growing season

Two demonstration plots to provide comparisons of six varieties of sweet clover and hairy vetch have been established in Lancaster County The plats are located on the Leo Doeschot farm two miles south of Panama and the George Barry farm two miles north and 3½ miles west of Raymond

Besides demonstrating the different varieties of sweet clover, the plots will show the effects of lime and phosphorus on legumes Part of each plot has had an application of lime alone, phosphorus alone, and lime and phosphorous together

The lime and phosphorus applications were made in accordance to the recommendations obtained by having the soil tested

Streams Problem to Cass

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Bridges Costly to Keep Up, Replace

Special to The Journal

PLATTSMOUTH—Rivers, creeks, and streams—sought after by fishers and woodsmen—are causing problems for the Cass County Commissioners.

The county, bounded by the Missouri River on the east, the Platte on the north, and claiming numerous streams in between, boasts the dubious distinction of having more bridges than miles of highway.

And keeping them all properly maintained has been one of the toughest tasks of the commissioners.

* * *

COUNTY ENGINEER'S figures set the number of bridges in the county at 653. There are 850 miles of mail route in the same area.

But the engineer's survey lists 233 bridges—over a third of the county total—as needing immediate repair.

The county has been fixing up worn-out structures as rapidly as funds have come available. "We made many improvements last year—not so much building new bridges as repairing old ones," said R. E. Norris of Weeping Water, member of the Cass County commissioners. "We're saving money by replacing as many small bridges as possible with culverts."

BUT EMPHASIS on bridge improvement has not meant slackening of roadbuilding work, engineers say. Last year the county graded over 100 miles of highway and rocked or graveled many more.

'Whole Town Turned Out to Help in Search For Fugitive'

Special to The Journal

VALENTINE — When this city's fire siren blew three times Friday morning, the townspeople knew something was up. Three blasts on the siren is the standard signal for emergencies.

Most of the men of the town gathered in the District Court room of the Cherry County Court House where Mayor Bob Hamilton told them about the shooting of Safety Patrolman Marvin Hansen during the night and that his suspected killed was still at large.

Mayor [illegible] had no trouble in organizing the posse which was directed in the field by Sheriff William Freeman who established field headquarters at the Berry Bridge, east of here.

* * *

NOT MANY persons were at their regular jobs during the day as the whole town turned to doing needed jobs to keep the posse in the field and to keep them fed.

The city's restaurants turned to the herculean task of producing in short order about 600 sandwiches, 600 cups of coffee, candy bars and cigarettes to be taken to the men in the field.

Col. C. J. Sanders, Safety Patrol chief, who was in personal command on the scene, praised the efforts of the citizens of Valentine and the surrounding areas for the complete co-operation given the patrol in the search for the fugitive.

* * *

"I CAN'T EVEN start to express my appreciaion of the people in the Valentine area for the assistance they have given the patrol," Col. Sanders said.

He also praised the efforts of the South Dakota Highway Patrol, the South Dakota Civil Air Patrol and the pilots of Valentine who assisted in the air search.

"I wish to thank all of the people for their help," Col. Sanders said.

Col. Sanders expressed deep regret in losing an officer of the caliber of Patrolman Hansen. He said Hansen was well liked by the people of Valentine and was such a good officer that there would have been a storm of protest if Hansen had been transferred away from Valentine.

Hansen had spent all of his six years on the patrol at Valentine.

* * *

THE NAMES of all the persons who pitched in to give aid during the search for the fugitive are not available, for practically everyone in town pitched in. Typical of the type of duties performed were these:

G. H. Kreuch, manager of the local telephone company, spent all of the morning hours from about 2 a.m. warning ranchers in the area to be on the lookout for the fugitive. After that, Kreuch also took a turn on the radio communications system in the sheriff's office which was able to contact patrol cars in the field, the airport and airplanes overhead.

W. J. Heelan, a Valentine abstractor, didn't report to his office at all during the day. He took over the sheriff's radio in the early morning hours and continued later on through the day.

Police Chief L. C. Regler and his entire force were engaged in the search from the early morning hours until the fugitive was caught.

* * *

JACK KNUTDSEN, a former member of the Safety Patrol, now a Gordon druggist, aided in the search and interrogation of the suspects.

Some of the larger high school students, released because the school had closed to allow the band to go to O'Neill for a band concert, took part in the search.

When one of the false alarms came in, a photographer wanted to be driven to the scene. County Superintendent Zetta Tate jumped into her car and drove the photographer to the scene. She said she didn't stop to realize how much danger there might have been connected with the trip.

The posse searched the canyons and ravines while the Safety Patrol searched every building within a 25-mile radius of the shooting scene.

CROWD AT COURTHOUSE—Hundreds of persons gathered at the Cherry County Courthouse at Valentine, pushed into the building and up the stairs toward the Sheriff's office, after officers arrested and brought to the office Lloyd Grandsinger who is held in the shooting of Safety Patrolman Marvin Hansen. Seepage Case Is Appealed

The Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District has appealed to the Supreme Court on a canal seepage case.

The district was defendant in a case brought by Clarence Myers in Keith County District Court.

Myers claimed that seepage from the district's canal from the South Platte to the Sutherland reservoir destroyed several wheat crops on a 12-acre tract of school land he has leased.

Myers contended that the seeping water contained alkali which saturated the soil and destroyed the crops.

He asked $5,618.76 in damages.

A jury awarded him $1,100. He filed a motion for a new trial and this was granted.

The Platte Valley District is appealing.

Fair Trade Act Decision Appealed to High Court

The McGraw Electric Co. of Elgin, Ill., has appealed to the Nebraska Supreme Court from a Douglas County District Court decision that the Nebraska Fair Trade Act is unconstitutional.

McGraw had brought action against the Lewis and Smith Drug Company of Omaha, charging that it sold electric toasters at $19.95, or less than the fair trade agreement of $23.

McGraw said that it had signed such an agreement with Orchard & Wilhelm of Omaha, thus obligating all retail dealers to sell at the same price. Any such agreement between two firms binds all the others.

Judge Jackson Chase of Douglas District Court dismissed both this complaint and one brought by General Electric Co. against the Brandeis stores on the same count because, he said, the law is unconstitutional.

Judge Chase said the Fair Trade Act, passed in 1937 is an "unauthorized exercise of the police powers of the state" and "an unauthorized delegation of legislative power to private persons enabling them to impose price fixing agreements."

Casey, Al, Paul All Believe They Have Winners

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel predicted Saturday the New York Yankees will win their sixth consecutive American League pennant. Mgr. Al Lopez forecast a Cleveland flag and Pilot Paul Richards declared his Chicago White Sox will beat out both the Yankees and Indians for the championship.

In contrast to the variance of opinion in the American League, practically all eight pilots have tabbed the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers as the team to beat for the National League championship.

"WE ARE the champions and we should do it again," declared Stengel, winner of five straight pennants. "We've lost some men but I believe new men like Byrd, Robinson, Morgan, Skowron and Cerv will make up for the loss of Raschi, Mize and Martin.

"The second team should be Cleveland, on their good pitching and that rookie (Rudy Regalado) who I see playing second base and Dave Philley who will help their outfield. Third has to be Chicago. They've changed their outfield and have added a couple of pitchers. Boston should be fourth, whether Williams plays or not. Washington is fifth. The other three I can't rate in order."

Lopez based his belief on a Cleveland pennant "because the Indians are stronger whereas the Yankees are weaker."

"Nobody can tell me that a team could lose three players of the caliber of Johnny Mize, Vic Raschi and Billy Martin in one season as the Yankees did and not suffer," Lopez said.

"On the other hand we're much stronger in pitching than we were a year ago at this time."

"The way I see the order of finish is: Chicago, New York, Cleveland and Boston," predicted Richards. "Washington is an improved and dangerous club, and Detroit, Philadelphia and Baltimore all appear to be stronger. Any one of them could jump into the first division. Our team is much stronger than our 1953 club which won 89 games."

Other managerial comments included:

LOU BOUDREAU, Boston Red Sox: "New York and Cleveland are the ball clubs we have to beat. Boston and Chicago must be regarded as the dark horses with the rest of the league showing better balance than a year ago in the pennant race."

Fred Hutchinson, Detroit Tigers: "The Yankees are still the team to beat. The Indians should be better. The White Sox have good speed and sharp fielding but their pitching department is questionable. The primary need of the Tigers is a relief pitcher. On the whole the team looks better than it did at the start a year ago."

Eddie Stanky, St. Louis Cardinals: "I'm not picking a winner or any one of four or five clubs to make a race of it. It looks like a wide open field because of the improvement throughout the league. We've got an outside chance on the strength of better pitching and a better club."

Stan Hack, Chicago Cubs: "Seven teams will be shooting to beat Brooklyn, which must be regarded as the team to beat."

Charlie Grimm, Milwaukee Braves: "The Braves are a definite first division club and any first division club must be considered a pennant contender. Brooklyn, as defending champion, is definitely the team to beat."

Walter Alston, Brooklyn Dodgers: "I know nothing about the National League teams so I can't make any predictions about the pennant race."

WALTER ALSTON — Doesn't know. . . | CHARLEY GRIMM — Braves definitely first division . . . | LOU BOUDREAU — Must beat New York and Cleveland . . . | PAUL RICHARDS — Predicts Chicago pennant . . .

Billy Jo Patton Hangs on at Augusta

Bantam Ben Breathing Down Carolina Amateur's Neck

By WILLIAM TUCKER

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Amateur Billy Jo Patton pinched himself Saturday and found he was leading the formidable Ben Hogan by a stroke at the halfway point of the 18th Masters golf tournament.

"It's sort of like a dream," said the 33-year-old Morganton, N. C., lumber man who puts the wood to the ball as it has seldom been seen on the Augusta National course.

* * *

EVERYTHING seems to be going my way," Patton added, "I have a feeling I'm lucky."

His luck, if that's what it was, came after he had bogeyed the last two holes Friday to finish with a 74 and a par 144 for 36 holes. Then Hogan, with a chance to go a stroke ahead with pars, faltered on the same two holes to remain a stroke back with 73 and 145.

Patton thus shattered precedent on two points in the 18th playing of the high-test tournament founded by Bobby Jones. He is the first amateur to hold the lead through two rounds and it was the first time a par score stood up that far for the lead.

But the issue was far from settled. Hogan, looking grim after he came in from a round played on a sodden, chilly course, was obviously the one breathing down the bespectabled Patton's neck.

Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., and Bob Rosburg of Chicago stood only a stroke farther back at 146. Two-time Masters champion Sam Snead, who zipped in the back nine Friday in 34 for a 73, and Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., had 147's.

* * *

STILL, Patton, who was averaging about 265 yards on his tee shots, was the story of the 1954 Masters at the 36-hole mark. He overdrove a few greens but he never fell short of his playing partner, veteran Byron Nelson, who was a little amazed by it all.

"On the fifth hole," Nelson said, "I made my second shot with a No. 4 wood. Patton used a six-iron with his hands widely spaced and outdrove me."

Veteran E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, who shared the opening day lead with Patton, shot a 79 on his second round and was down in the pack.

Six players stood at 148, four strokes back of the leader. They were a pair of Grossingers, N.Y., entries, Al Besselink and Dave Douglas; Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa.; Chick Harbert of Northville, Mich., Jack Burke Jr., Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., and Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, the lone foreign entrant.

Nebraska U Battered by Tulsa Nine

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Right-hander Norris Dorsey pitched all the way for the University of Tulsa Friday, scattering eight hits for a 7-2 baseball victory over the University of Nebraska in the Cornhuskers' season opener.

Nebraska's runs came in the third and seventh innings. It's initial tally, which tied the game, was on third baseman Virgil Gottsch's single to right-field and the second from pinch hitter Don Brown's triple and Fred Seger's sacrifice fly.

Murray Backhaus, Nebraska catcher, was robbed of possible base hits in the fourth and sixth innings. Both times centerfielder Bob Latch raced back to make the catch.

The teams wind up their series here today.

Dorsey passed one batter—Shortstop Dirkes Rolston—which resulted in Nebraska's first tally. Rolston stole second and came home on Gottsch's single.

The Cornhuskers showed plenty of defensive ability, reeling off two double plays and a couple of good catches by outfielders Jim Cederdahl and Don Becker.

Becker went deep in left field to snare catcher Gary Robb's hit in the eighth. Cederdahl backtracked to the 370-foot center-field fence to haul down a seventh inning drive by Latch.

Wisconsin Close To NCAA Crown

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Wisconsin's hard-hitting Badgers were just about set tonight to take home their seventh NCAA boxing championship trophy.

Coach John Walsh's Big Ten pugilists all but wrapped up the prize Friday night when they swept all four of their semifinal fights, two by knockouts.

That gave them a commanding five point lead over Louisiana State's small but formable squad and a seven-point bulge over Maryland.

Brown Goes Route, But Takes Loss

By WALT DOBBINS
Journal Sports Writer

TEMPLE, Tex.—Lincoln's Chiefs, the victims of a ninth inning assault here Friday night when they bowed to the Temple Eagles, 4-3, moved into Huntsville, Tex., Saturday for a skirmish with Williamsport of the Class A Eastern League.

Manager Whitey Wietelmann has Rog Wright and either Bob Bandelier or George Dries, the latter a pair of southpaws, ready for the pitching chore.

* * *

NORMAN BROWN went the full route Friday night but weakened in the late innings and tasted defeat when Fred Martin's Club pushed over the winning tally after the first two men had been retired.

Singles by Steel and Wolkinson and Daehn's double just inside the first base foul line turned the trick.

The Chiefs took an early 2-0 lead in the third when with two gone Johnny Sanderson doubled and scored on Fred Hancock's single. Hancock advanced two notches on a wild pitch and a passed ball and tallied when Andy Anderson hit sharply to right.

Anderson's inside-the-park homer in the sixth was the Chiefs only other marker.

Lincoln threatened in the eighth but a double play killed them off and they went out in order in the ninth.

Johnny Sanderson joined the Chiefs here and made his debut at shortstop. A double play enabled the enemy to tie the count at 3-all, Brown failing to back up the bag.

Lincoln's failure to hit again cost a chance for victory, their total production against two Eagle hurlers, Dick Stromback and Max Newcom, being six hits.

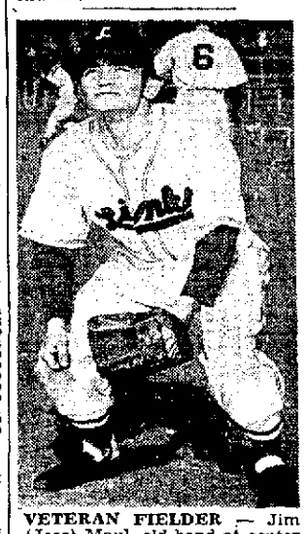

The Eagles got to Brown for 11, seven of which came in the last four frames.

Decision Goes Against Pep

NEW YORK (AP) — Wondrous Willie Pep, whose nimble hands won him fame and fortune in the ring only to betray him at the dice table, has been "counted out" by the New York State Boxing Commission.

Pep's remarkable career seemed definitely ended when the commission ruled that he be barred from New York rings "for his own good and for the good of boxing." The Massachusettes commission immediately withdrew approval of Pep's scheduled bout with Bobby Courchesne of Chicopee, Mass., at Holyoke, Mass., next Monday and the National Boxing Association also was expected to "go along" with the New York ruling.

The move followed routine physical examinations after Pep's last fight—a second-round technical knockout at the hands of Lulu Perez in which the once-nimble Willie played the role of a leaden-footed "old man of the ring."

Willie wanted to leave 'em laughing—but that last fight was positively the worst of a great career.

Five Netters Named For Huskers' Squad

Tennis Coach Ed Higginbotham of the University of Nebraska has named a five-man squad for the annual Cornhusker tour into Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas.

Representing Nebraska in matches with Oklahoma, Southern Methodist, Austin College at Sherman, Tex., East Central Oklahoma State, Tulsa and Pittsburg (Kan.) State will be:

Roy Golson of Glennwood, Minn.; Jim Campbell of Grand Island; Norman Veitzer of Omaha; Marshall Becker of Omaha; Steve Sutton of Blair.

I May Be Wrong

By Walt Dobbins
Journal Sports Editor

Today's I May Be Wrong is by Dick Becker, pinch hitting for Walt Dobbins who is in Texas with the Lincoln Chiefs.

Announcement that a league in Texas was ordering all umpires to let players fight once they start, brought back some lesser known incidents of the Western League.

Most of the rhubarbs in baseball that take place on the field are quickly forgotten by the players and managers. Bitter arguments with umpires can be down the drain before the teams get to the clubhouse.

The place to hurt a player is his pocketbook. If he isn't fined, he usually isn't mad.

Behind the Scenes

Most of the good debates go on off the field and many of them are carried for a long time in the minds of the participants.

A good example of this is an incident which involved Lou Finney of the Chiefs and Denver's Andy Cohen last year.

Andy is probably one of the best liked managers in the league by the players. Lou was equally well regarded.

Lincoln had gone out to Denver and been laced in an early season game. What irked Finney was that—to him—Cohen had broken one of the gentlemen's agreements of baseball—he had hunted runners ahead while holding a big lead.

To Finney this was simply pouring it on, trying to make the Chiefs look bad. Lou vowed, very privately, that the time would come when he would get even.

Lincoln did late in the season. Lou juggled his pitchers and when the Bears got to town they faced Norm Brown, Bill Denney, Fred Waters and Andy Bush. It was a long series for the Bears.

Goodbye Mario

One of the more comical incidents came during the Les Bell year. The Lincoln players took a particular dislike to Sioux City pitcher Mario Picone, who has since played for Minneapolis and the New York Giants.

Mario had a good year but he couldn't beat Lincoln. At one point he had lost but four games and Lincoln had beaten him three of them.

After the third time the A's were ready to leave the Soo park and Junior Reedy went to the door of the Soos' dressing room and said:

"You can come out now, Mr. Macone, we is leavin'."

Carl Turns Blue

One player who was the ruination of general managers was Al Leap of Pueblo. There was no telling what Al would do from one series to the next.

One particularly hot August evening when Sherman Field was brown and dry, Leap walked out to take batting practice for the first game of a series with Lincoln.

Leap, never known for his drawing room language, tossed his glove high in the air, flung his hat to the ground and shouted, "A xxxxxx desert, I have seen better xxxxxx high school diamonds."

Carl Pusey, who was fighting with the Lincoln gate receipts at the time, was fit to be tied. He colored up and looked like a pouter pigeon about ready to take off.

He rushed into the office and began sending wires. He wanted Leap fined, barred and probably beheaded for this act.

Nothing ever came of this uproar and the incident happened so early that only about 15 people had arrived at the park in time to witness it.

It was just another example of why managers get gray and probably why some guys play ball until they have to be wheeled onto the field.

Northeast Rallies For Win

Orangemen Fall In Track Meet

BEATRICE—Bill Marten, Beatrice High's hurdle star, tied the state record in the low hurdles as Northeast rallied in the final event to beat Beatrice, 62 2-3-60 1-3, in a dual track meet here Friday.

Marten's time equalled the record set in the state meet last year by Don Comstock and Dick Knaub of Scottsbluff. The dark-haired senior also won the 120-yard high hurdles in the snappy time of :15.3 and tied for first in the broad jump with Northeast's Ken Nelson.

Led by Marten, the Orangemen shot into a 60-54 lead with only the pole vault left. But the Rockets came through to remain undefeated.

Northeast vaulters Dean Jenkins and Bob Lee tied for first and second at 10 feet 2½ inches. Rockets Winston Holverson and Dave Young shared third place with Beatrice's Dave Melcher.

Northeast's 880-yard relay team of Bill Fry, Gene Samuelson, Harry Large and Ken Nelson sped to a fine 1:37.9 clocking to win that event.

Nelson had previously won the sprints, running the 100-yard dash in :10.2 and the 220 in :23.5. He is still undefeated in the sprints as Northeast won its third meet of the season.

Beatrice weight man Jerry Sand tossed the shot 44 feet 10¾ inches to lead the Orangemen in a sweep of that event. Sophomore Max Martz was second in the shot and won the high jump with a leap of 5-8½.

Sand was surprised in the discus event, however. Northeast's Larry Hennings tossed 127-1 to win the disc and Sand, who threw it 131 feet against Teachers, Tuesday, took second.

A blasting wind cut down times in some events and boosted them in others.

Rosi's Right Is Definite Threat

NEW YORK (AP)—Paolo Rosi comes from Rieti, Italy, and still speaks broken English but his dynamic right hand—which accounted for his 22nd knockout in 26 pro bouts Friday night—was interpreted Saturday as a definite threat for the world lightweight title.

Rosi used that lethal right hand to stop veteran Eddie Compo of New Haven, Conn., in 54 seconds of the sixth round in a televised and broadcast fight at St. Nicholas Arena.

"What a puncher! . . . this boy is really good," marveled world featherweight champion Sandy Saddler, who was among the ringside spectators.

Braves Topple Boston For Home Town Triumph

By United Press

Southpaw Warren Spahn and veteran outfielder Andy Pafko were held chiefly responsible Saturday for a perceptible quickening of Milwaukee's throbbing pennant pulse.

On view before Milwaukee's home town fans for the first time this year, Spahn and Pafko teamed up brilliantly Friday to earn the Braves a 3-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Spahn, oblivious to the brisk 46-degree temperature that kept the County Stadium crowd down to 6,074, went the full distance, allowing only seven scattered hits and striking out four.

He held the Red Sox scoreless until the ninth when Jim Piersall doubled, took third on Jackie Jensen's single and came across on George Kell's sacrifice fly.

* * *

THE 33-YEAR old Pafko put the Braves ahead when he hit the first ball pitched to him for a homer in the second inning. He also singled in the fourth and subsequently scored on Del Crandall's single. Bill Henry, who yielded all of the Braves' eight hits in the seven innings he worked, suffered the loss.

Like the Braves, the Dodgers also came home on a winning note as they pounded veteran Allie Reynolds of the Yankees for three homers and an 8-2 victory before 8,066 fans at Ebbets Field. It was Brooklyn's fourth conquest in six spring meetings with the world champions.

Jim Gilliam smashed two homers off Reynolds to account for three runs.

Carl Erskine, who will pitch the regular season opener against the Giants Tuesday, hurled the first four innings for the Dodgers. He held the Yankees scoreless and was touched for two hits.

Clem Labine and Jim Hughes mopped up.

Detroit, rolling up 19 hits—its biggest total of the spring—easily beat Cincinnati, 10-5, at Columbus, Ohio. Included among the hits collected off Joe Nuxhall, Rudy Minarcin and Fred Baczewski was Ray Boone's first homer of the exhibition season.

Grady Hatton, Roy McMillan and Jim Greengrass each homered for the Redlegs as Ted Gray gained the victory.

* * *

PITTSBURGH pounded out a 13-4 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics, racking relief pitcher Bob Trice for 12 of their 15 hits after he relieved Bobby Shantz in the sixth. Bob Friend started for the Pirates but Max Surkont, who took over for him in the sixth and drove in five runs with two doubles and a single, was the winner.

Robin Roberts made his most impressive appearance of the spring, allowing only one run in seven innings, but the Phillies had to settle for a 2-2 tie with the Senators at Washington. The game was called at the end of the 10th inning because of cold weather.

Johnny Schmitz went eight innings for the Senators and gave up both Philadelphia runs. Rookie Bob Talbot drove in three runs with a double and a single to pace the Cubs to a 6-5 victory over the White Sox at Memphis, Tenn. Warren Hacker was the winner and Jack Harshmann the loser.

Al Rosen's ninth inning single scored Billy Glynn from second base and gave the Indians a 1-0 victory over the Giants at Louisville, Ky. Larry Jensen, who relieved Sal Maglie in the sixth, suffered the loss while Mike Garcia, who took over for Early Wynn in the fifth, was the winner.

New York Fight 'Mob' Unwelcome in Chicago

By JACK MABLEY
Lincoln Journal—Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO—The New York fight mob, including the New York Athletic Commission, Thursday was invited to stay out of Chicago at future major fights.

The invitation came from Lou Radzienda, acting chairman of the Illinois Athletic Commission.

"If they must come, let them act like gentlemen," Radzienda said.

Radzienda and Johnny Behr, also a Chicago boxing commissioner, are becoming increasingly disgusted at the tactics of New Yorkers.

* * *

"THE NEW YORK mob moved into Chicago days before the Gavilan-Olson fight," Radzienda said. "They tried to make clowns out of us.

"They think they'll just take over the yokels. They figured on grabbing the money, and the title. It backfired on them.

"When the Gavilan injured hand alibi didn't go over, they turned on the referee."

A New York tabloid on Sunday quoted Dan Dowd, secretary of the New York Commission, as saying that if the fight had happened in New York, the referee would have been called on the carpet the next morning.

"They're sore because they couldn't figure an angle on Sonny Weissman (the referee)," Radzienda said. "He was a surprise choice. He is athletic director at Illinois Tech, one of the finest schools in the country. He is experienced, and above reproach."

Radzienda acknowledged he had heard dozens of rumors planted by the New York mob before the fight in an effort to sway the betting. One was that it was in the bag for Gavilan, and the referee would be in on the fix.

The biggest rumor concerned an alleged injury to Gavilan's hand.

"Why, Gavilan even went to a West Side restaurant with a bandage on his hand," Radzienda said. "What more perfect way to set up an alibi in advance.

* * *

"THE DAY of the fight we had two doctors examine every inch of flesh on Gavilan's arm, every muscle, tendon and bone. There was absolutely nothing wrong. We had both Gavilan and his manager swear there was no pain or injury in the hand. We were determined to spike that alibi in advance, and we did.

"The worst thing about this New York crying is that one of these days Chicagoans are going to stop patronizing these fights.

"When Walcott was knocked out, they yelled short count. Vejar's alibi was a stomach ache. With Chuck Davey, it was flu. Maxim was poisoned. How asinine can you get?

"What hurts most is belittling a winner. In most sports it is the custom to congratulate the winner."

Robert Christenberry, New York commission chairman, and Dr. Vincent Nardiello, commission physician, climaxed their activities at the Olson-Gavilan fight by pushing their way into the Olson dressing room and to Olson's side for the dressing room pictures.

"The New Yorkers have enough troubles of their own without coming here and making trouble for us," Radzienda said. "When Christenberry took over in New York he made a big speech about how he would drive the hoodlums out of boxing.

"The same guys are in the same places They're all there, stronger than ever. You don't hear a peep out of Christenberry.

"There's no point in doing anything about Gavilan and Lopez and their alibis now. But we'll remember them if they ever come back."

PE Speaker Says Must Keep Pace

A Californian who has spent his life in the educational field Friday night told an audience of fellow educators that they and he must keep pace with the national trends associated with their profession.

Dr. Ben W. Miller of the University of California at Los Angeles, addressed the Central District Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation at the 20th annual convention in the Lincoln Hotel.

He noted that the educators of today must be in tune with the cultural trends of their nation or their profession would fail to reflect the desires and needs of the people.

The vice president of the AAHPER commented that the America of today is more in need of recreation than ever before and that new methods of instruction in recreation are needed.

Dr. Miller said he saw the field of physical education as one in which social barriers are more easily destroyed because of the nature of the activities. Recreation, he noted, stresses the importance of efficiency and mitigates the accidents of race and birth.

District officers elected Friday were Jean Bontz, Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, Ia., president-elect; Tom Smith, Moorhead (Minn.) State Teachers College, vice president-elect for health; Louis Alley, University of Iowa, Iowa City, vice president-elect for physical education; Mrs. Verna Rensvold, Kansas City, Mo., Recreation Department, vice president-elect for recreation, and Edwin R. Elbel, University of Kansas, re - elected secretary-treasurer.

The new officers will be installed at the 1955 district convention to be held in St. Paul, Minn.

The officers for 1954, elected a year ago, are R. B. Frost, South Dakota State College, Brookings, S. D., president; Carl L. Wear, University of Nebraska, vice president for health; Douglas Evans, Sioux Falls, S. D., public schools, vice president for physical education, and Garnet G. Stone, Denver, Colo., Public Schools, vice president for recreation.

Retiring officers are Mrs. Herman Gimmestad, Midland College, president; Anita Aldrich, Kansas City, Mo., Public Schools, vice president for health; A. Gwendolyn Drew, Washington University, vice president for physical education, and Randall O. Watkins, University of Wyoming, vice president for recreation.

The Friday program included panel discussions, demonstrations, and addresses by various educators.

Saturday, the final day of the convention, will include an address by Tom Deckard, director of the Drake Relays, and panel discussions.

Chisox Picked To Win

Still Brooklyn In Senior Loop

By JOHN P. CARMICHAEL
Lincoln Journal-Chicago Daily News Service

AUGUSTA, Ga.—This is just far enough removed from the scene to get what may be an outlandish perspective of the 1954 pennant races which open next Tuesday on major league baseball fronts.

The script calls for the Yankees and Dodgers to meet in their third straight World Series. They shall not. Brooklyn should win and probably will, but the defending world champions are ripe to be beaten.

More important, perhaps, is the conviction in many quarters that this will be the last year in New York and Philadelphia for the Giants and Athletics. The Dodgers and Yanks are slowly squeezing the Giants out of circulation in greater Manhattan. The A's have fallen to an average home attendance of 5,000 per game . . . as much from their own defections as from any pressure by the Phils.

* * *

IT SEEMS only logical that the time has come for a further realignment of the big leagues such as the Braves and Browns already have pioneered in their respective circuits.

From this corner of the veranda which overlooks the Augusta National Golf Course, the 1954 World Series will open in Flatbush on Sept. 28 (Tuesday) and move to Comiskey Park, Chicago, Sept. 30. (That's what the man says . . . and here's the complete order of finish:

AMERICAN LEAGUE
White Sox	Washington
Cleveland	Detroit
Yankees	Baltimore
Boston	Philadelphia
NATIONAL LEAGUE
Brooklyn	Chicago
St. Louis	Giants
Milwaukee	Cincinnati
Phillies	Pittsburgh

Everything is favorable for a Sox Year. They have a clever manager in Paul Richards. They've acquired pitching depth and bench strength at a time when the strain on both Indian and Yank pitching should begin to tell. They're almost on a par with the Yanks defensively and have more speed and potential hitting strength than Cleveland.

Viet Nam Chief Flies To France

Seeks Agreement On Independence

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP)—Viet Nam Chief of State Bao Dai flew to France to review with the French government important recent developments in the Indo-China war.

Bao Dai will wait in Nice for a formal invitation to meet President Rene Coty, who as chairman of the French Union is his nominal boss.

Bao Dai's visit will occur at about the time discussions are going on between French officals and U.S. Secretary of State Dulles. Dulles is seeking solid French and British backing for his proposed 10-nation pledge of "United action" to halt communism in Indo-China.

* * *

BAO DAI IS expected to ask the French about their future course in light of the emphatic American concern over the fate of his young nation and the April 26 Geneva conference on Indo-China and Korea.

The most immediate problem for Bao Dai is Vietamese independence. Conversations in Paris on granting his government more sovereignty have stalled over the question of Viet Nam's adherence to the French Union, which groups France's overseas possessions into one French-dominated body.

Viet Nam's present rulers are said to be willing to join the union. For the sake of opinion at home, however, they want at least 24 hours of complete freedom before making the decision. Then they want to become equal partners in the association, as befits an independent state.

* * *

THE VIETNAMESE officials argue they need wide freedom to win popular support away from the Communist-led Vietminh, the common enemy of both the Saigon government and French. These rebels, under Ho Chi Minh, always have ridiculed the Bao Dai government as a puppet regime.

The French want a faster buildup in the young Vietnamese army, the establishment of a wider popular base for the present government, moral and political reforms and the calling of a provisional national assembly.

General Pays Up For Dog House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Notice to taxpayers: The general has paid up for that $1,200 dog house he built at government expense.

This reassuring report was delivered to the House Armed Services Committee.

Maj. Gen. Roderick Allen wanted his dogs to have the best possible accommodations when he was at Ft. Dix, N. J. For their comfort he provided a plush kennel and a 90-by-60-foot enclosure for exercise.

The Army investigated. It told the committee its inquiry was completed, that "a board of officers fixed pecuniary liability" for the dog house, and that the general had paid up.

Boy's Liking for Toy May Put Dad in Prison

TOLEDO, O. (AP) — Columbus Howard Bennett worked hard as a house painter during his past 18 years as a Toledo resident.

His wife said the slight, grey-haired man was a fine husband and a wonderful father to their seven children.

The 59-year-old painter's only recorded scrape with the law was a traffic summons for having no muffler on his automobile.

But last March 25 Bennett's 14-year-old son admired a $15 toy fire engine. That started the painter's world crumbling.

POLICE SAY the man—known to his family and neighbors only as Bennett—is really Christopher Columbus Howard Hair, who escaped from a Huntsville, Tex., penitentiary where he was serving a life term as a habitual criminal.

Inspector Anthony A. Bosch said Bennett admitted he escaped from the Texas prison in 1936, and that he had successfully deceived his family about his past. In tears, Bennett was quoted as telling police:

"I swore to myself I never would do anything to disgrace my wonderful wife and our children. And now it all came tumbling down."

Bennett first came to the attention of authorities two weeks ago.

* * *

HE WAS OUT driving with one of his sons. While Bennett was getting water for his car's radiator, the boy noticed the toy on a sidewalk nearby. A man poked his head out of a house and yelled that the boy was stealing the engine.

Bennett's boy dropped the toy and ran to the car. Bennett drove off, but the angered man took down his license number and notified police about what he thought was an attempted theft.

Detectives called at Bennett's home.

Police recorded and circulated Bennett's fingerprints as a matter of routine. Apprehension followed.

Registered Unemployed Show Drop

Registered unemployment on April 1 in Nebraska was 19 per cent under March 1, the State Labor Department reported.

On April 1 those registered as jobless in the state totaled 12,988. The March 1 figure was 16,020 and on April 1, 1953, the figure was 7,445.

Job placements in March climbed 48 per cent over February to 4,597 and were only 13 per cent under March, 1953. Placement gains during March were heaviest in construction, food manufacturing and on farms.

The department said the state's downtrend of employment the past half year appeared checked on April 1 after a reasonably good volume of job openings were listed by employers during March at State Employment Service offices.

* * *

THE MONTH'S total of 4,989 jobs listed was 47 per cent above February, but 24 per cent less than the number listed a year ago.

Unemployment insurance payments totaled a record high of $871,935 during March, compared with $469,069 a year earlier. Some of the increase, however, was because of increased benefits.

Less favorable factors in the state's employment picture was a slight rise in the number registering for work at employment service offices for the first time. New applications climbed 4 per cent over February, to 4,196. In March, 1953, the total was 2,957.

* * *

THE DEPARTMENT said the number of persons filing jobless claims for the first time totaled 2,405 in March, 1953. The weekly average number of persons claiming insurance checks in March totaled 8,093 as compared with 8,815 in February and 5,010 in March, 1953.

Bishop Blast At McCarthy Is Supported

CHICAGO (AP) — The Catholic Youth Organization said telegrams and telephone calls had "poured in" supporting Bishop Bernard J. Sheil's attack on Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

However, there was no comment on Sheil's harsh-worded attack on McCarthy from Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, or from any others members of the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

Meanwhile Chicago American Legion Naval Post 372 passed a resolution attacking Sheil's speech to the International Education Conference of the CIO United Auto Workers union.

* * *

THE RESOLUTION was offered by Phillip W. Collins, member of the Chicago Transit Authority and a prominent Catholic layman. He said the resolution would be submitted to the First District of the state American Legion.

The CYO, a nationally-known organization founded by Sheil, did not divulge how many messages it had received on the bishop's speech or who they were from.

However, a CYO spokesman said the responses were running "about 80-20" in Sheil's favor.

Sheil's speech was particularly noteworthy because he was the first high Catholic prelate to denounce McCarthy. McCarthy also is a Catholic.

* * *

SHEIL PICTURED the Wisconsin Republican as a headline-hunting "city slicker" whose investigative methods may be serving the Communist cause.

The bishop spoke of "phony anti-Communism" and commented "phooey!"

Sheil is the auxiliary bishop of Chicago and has long been known for his outspoken views and liberal philosophy. He has marched in picket lines and has played an active part in rehabilitating under-privileged children and slum areas.

If He Can Only Live to Be 118

CHICAGO (AP)—The $70 suit Alfred F. Arndt, 68, got from Clothier Max Hyman sealed a bargain they had made 50 years ago.

Arndt, as a youth of 18, had complained to Hyman for charging him $15 for a suit back in 1904.

"Come back in 50 years and I'll give you one free," Hyman told him.

Arndt, one of Hyman's steady customers, went to the store to hold Hyman to his bargain. Hyman, now in his 80s, remembered and invited Arndt to pick out a $70 suit for free.

"It would have been $20 in 1904," Arndt told Hyman.

"Come back in 50 years and we'll do it again," Hyman told his favorite customer.

Food, Clothing Cache Is Found

Special to The Journal

VALENTINE — Large quantities of various kinds of produce and clothing were brought into the Cherry County Courthouse after a cache, believed by police to have been hidden by the Grandsinger brothers, was discovered by sheriff's deputies about a half mile north of the Brandenburg ranch.

The articles were believed to be part of the items reported stolen at Wewela, S.D., on Wednesday when a store and post office there was entered.

The cache was found in a clump of bushes covered with a blanket and contained such items as several boxes of cottage cheese, chewing gum, canned meats, bologna, several cases of fresh eggs, several cases of coffee—regular and drip—boxes of overalls and sox, tools of all descriptions, fishing rods, power saw, etc.

Law officers, who at the time were conducting a minute search for Lloyd Grandsinger in connection with the shooting of a Nebraska safety patrolman, "staked-out" the cache in hopes the man would return. He was captured later however, only a short distance from the cache by officers of the Safety Patrol.

Nielson Files To Oppose Griswold

OMAHA (AP)—Walter Nielsen, Omaha businessman and attorney, has filed as a Republican candidate for the Senate seat now held by Sen Dwight Griswold

Nielsen

Nielsen, in a policy statement, said Griswold had not yet "made any statement on any definite matter and has been conveniently absent from the Senate at all important matters " He said his platform would include approval of "McCarthyism," and added, "I believe all the attacks of a slanderous nature made upon Sen McCarthy . . are unworthy of this country"

He said he believed a 75 to 90 per cent parity level can be maintained on farm products, with "variants based upon the cost of living indexes"

"The withholding tax and social security program," Nielsen said, "are a fraud upon the American people and unless the real benefits to be derived from either are forthcoming in the near future they should be abandoned"

Nielsen ran against Griswold in 1952.

'Annual Wage in 1955'

CHICAGO (AP)—CIO President Walter P Reuther has set next year as the date for the guaranteed annual wage demand by General Motors and Ford auto workers

Crime Becomes Personal Matter

A report turned in to the Lancaster County sheriff s office listed hubcaps and a spotlight, with a total value of $35, missing from a car which had been parked in a lot at 27th and Adams

Owner of the car Officer R C Gillespie of the Lincoln police force

SPRING IS HERE!

AND SO IS THE DUMPING PROBLEM!

The past few years the roads have been littered with beer cans and other refuse. It costs Lancaster County several thousand dollars each year to clean up the roads. As in the past, we will prosecute anyone who is caught dumping on any public highway in this county.

A reward of $25 00 will be given to anyone giving information leading to the conviction of a violator.

Please help us keep our roads free of debris.

LANCASTER COUNTY BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

BOYS! Here are 4 WAYS a Route Helps You Get AHEAD!...

WHETHER you are headed for a military or civilian career, or both, there's no better way to prepare for advancement than to combine spare-time daily newspaper route work with your school studies Leading citizens of every community, and ranking officers of army and navy, testify from their own experience that a newspaper route is a good starting point for success

1. It enables you to turn your spare time into the extra dollars you need for schooling, clothes, recreation and savings.

2. It teaches you basic business methods; how to meet people, make deliveries, collect money, keep records, satisfy readers.

3. It trains you in that most useful of all trades—salesmanship; how to sell yourself, your product and your services.

4. It helps you develop ability, build health and good habits—all of which are so essential for success in any life work.

So, if you are of carrier age and eager to make the most of your spare time opportunities to earn money, learn business and salesmanship, and gain valuable experience, get in touch with our Circulation Department for full details about any route openings in your district.

38 New Routes Started in Nearby Towns Within 8 Days

The 38 new Lincoln Journal carriers who have recently started giving front door delivery in their home towns, not only benefit themselves but they also give better newspaper service to their neighbors.

Auto delivery service rushes Lincoln Journal newspapers to nearby towns and local young business men immediately deliver "today's news today" to their Journal customers. Their success depends upon giving good, fast service.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

BY ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D Sc.

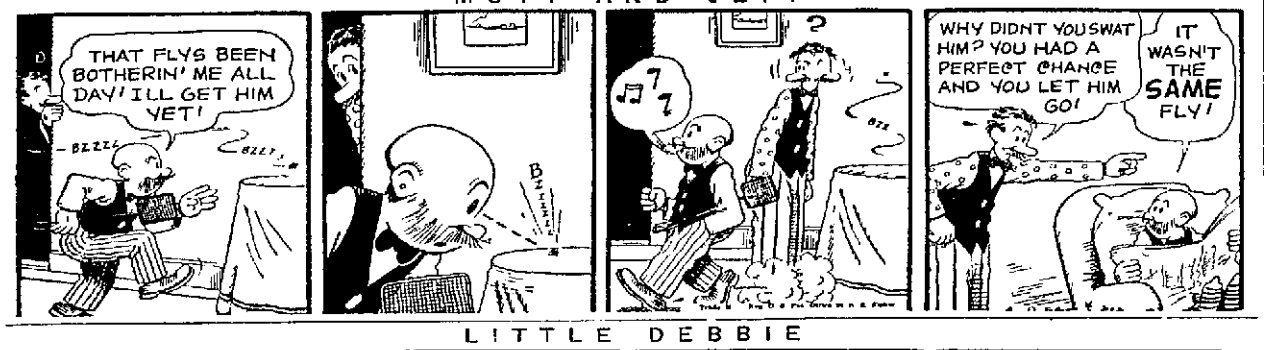

1 Probably not One psychologist studied two babies daily from birth to seven months They were cared for like other babies except that no one smiled or played with them and they had no toys Yet, they smiled and laughed at their poker faced nurses at the same age that babies usually do

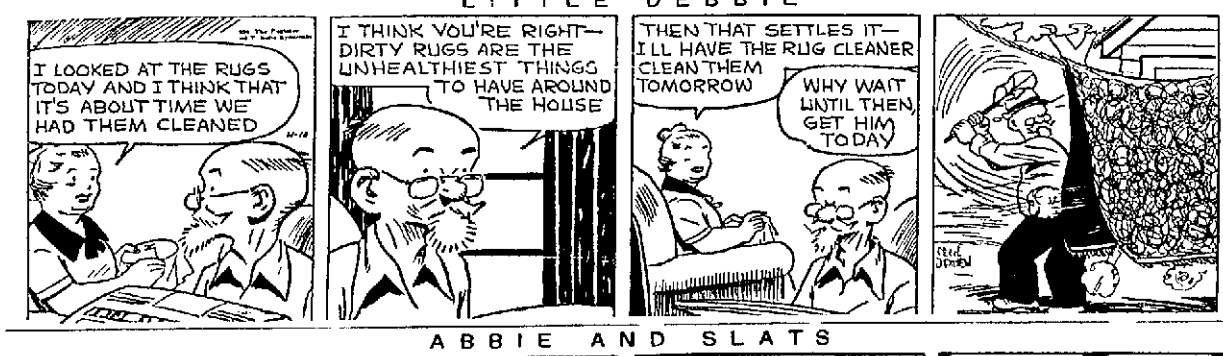

2 Yes Geniuses have been prophets and moral leaders of mankind The late F A Woods showed that throughout a thousand year period nearly all the truly great European rulers were rated as noble characters even by enemy historians Over 300 studies have shown that average and slow children cheat and lie more in school than brilliant children Of course, there are exceptions

3 No A London psychologist maintains that the hand particularly the thumb reveals a person's nature However, Fordham psychologists studied 100 men college students ages 18 to 28, and could find absolutely no relationship between the thumb and will power or any other measurable traits of personality

Not This This

Father Uncle Tom is only teasing you Quit kicking at him and he'll let go of your hands Don't get so angry when he is only having a little fun with you

Father You are right Uncle is teasing Jack must learn to take some teasing—but it is better for him to learn it from children his own age than from grown ups

An adult teasing a child is a form of bullying which should not be condoned.
